The International Workshop will take place on May, 20, 2016 in Ukraine. It is an excellent occasion for specialists of different fields, e.g. IT specialists for e-learning design, e-learning tutors, teachers and lecturers, technologists, psychologists, educational managers and researchers to make a jump into new paradigm of Science and Education in High Tech Age.

The Workshop occupies contributions in all aspects of educational technologies and cloud-based learning tools, platforms, paradigms and models, functioning programmes or papers relevant to modern engineering and technological decisions in the IT age. There is urgent general need for principled changes in education elicited by current e-learning tools, services and IT communication. Let's to come, show your best practice, and envisage your future actions at the front line of high-tech education.

Topics of interest

- Mobile and blended learning
- Cloud-based e-learning platforms, tools and services
- Cloud-based learning environments
- Cloud-based and mobile learning technologies for teacher and VET
- Seamless learning and holistic education modelling and design
- Massive open online courses
- Open learning systems and virtual conferences for training professionals
- Methods of using cloud-oriented learning tools

The Workshop languages are English, Ukrainian, and Russian.

Paper submission

Authors are invited to submit short (up to 3 pages) or full (8-12 pages) papers through the workshop submission system (http://tmn.ccjournals.eu/index.php/cte/) by April 20 2016:

1. Submissions must be original and should not have been published previously or be under consideration for publication while being evaluated for this conference. The review process will be blind peer review.

2. The submission files is in OpenOffice, Microsoft Word (DOC only), RTF document file format.

3. Formatting options:

– paper size is A5 (148 mm x 210 mm);

– all page margins is 16 mm;

– style ‘Normal’;

– text is single-spaced;

– uses a 10,5-point proportional font (e. g., Times New Roman);

– text alignment – justification;

– indentation the first line of paragraph is 7 mm.

4. Full papers must break new ground and provide complete and substantial support for the reported results and conclusions. Successful submissions typically represent a major advance for the field of ECT in to any of the areas listed as the topics of interest.

5. Short papers offer a focused contribution to the research program. Short papers may contribute to any of the areas listed as the topics of interest of the ECT conference. Short papers are likely to have a smaller scope of contribution than full papers, but their contribution is expected to be a solid contribution to the field. For example, short papers on applications may not cover the entire iterative design cycle (observation, design, implementation, evaluation, etc.) but may instead go into depth in specific areas. Short papers may offer details of a design process, an evaluation, an implementation, technical discovery, etc. Short papers are expected to cite work that is directly relevant to their content but do not need to fulfil the breadth and depth of coverage required by long papers.

6. Structure of the paper:

Block 1. In Workshop language: Paper title, Author Name, Affiliation, Postal address, E-mail address, Optional phone number, Abstract (100-250 words), Keywords.

NB! An academic abstract outlines four elements relevant to the completed work:

Background – the research focus (i.e. statement of the problem(s)/research issue(s) addressed), object, subject and goals;

The research methods used (experimental research, case studies, questionnaires, etc.);

The results/findings of the research; and

The main conclusions and recommendations

Block 2. In English is the same information in such order: authors (transliteration), title, abstract, keywords, affiliation, and address.

Block 3. Full text of the article in its original language.

Block 4. References in National language.

Block 5. References transliterated into Latin alphabet.

The proceedings of the workshop will be published as a special issue of the scientific journals Theory and methods of e-learning and New computer technology.
